We loved to mirror each other
To convince ourselves
That we were right
and everyone else was wrong
We used to play along
And I liked this game for a while
It felt like the movie
I always wanted to play a roll in
With a lot of music
And the feeling that someone is like me

But then there was a side of me
That I was trying to kill
But you kept it alive
You wouldn't let it die
I know we used to live
In the same world
The same hostile world
That betrayed us a 100 times
But we still got
To live in it somehow

*And this is how we died
When I took a knife
And I cute the rope
That connected us both*

You're like a closed up dusty book
Always telling the same old story
With the hero being you
Feeling sad, feeling blue
Because no one understands you
And you're angry and you're aching
And I saw my own bad sides in a mirror
And then the storyline went bad
I didn't want to spend my life
Staying angry and sad

And there was a side of you
That I was trying to ignore
But it was there
It made me scared
Like too much anger in a man
Always scares the hell out of me
It felt like a movie
I never wanted to be in
The music faded

And I needed to get away
